DJ-GIGAHURTZ

In the new digital era of music, DJ Gigahurtz has embraced the new technologies and has incorporated them with new sounds to become a one-of-a-kind high energy DJ. He continues to stay ahead of the curve by merging those new sounds into his music sets, and by adding "Video DJing" to his repertoire, he is quickly taking his DJing to new heights. His determination to always better himself, has motivated him to produce music for himself and others, where his talents have been high acclaimed by Grammy nominated producers. That success has landed him a position onto one of the most reputable dance record labels in the world, Dirty Dutch Records.

DJ Gigahurtz's love for music came at an early age. His devotion to DJing began shortly after finishing high school and moving to Southern California for college. As he was attending the University of Riverside, California, he was introduced to DJing. He quickly became intrigued and wanted to gain the skills for beat-matching, beat-juggling, and scratching. As a computer technology student, DJ Gigahurtz found it natural to blend his love for music and technology. Incorporating his knowledge for computers and software, he was able to DJ full shows from the comfort of his own computer. This immediately set him apart from other DJs at the time. Over a span of 12 years, he has made an impact on the DJ community. DJ Gigahurtz has become globally known as one of the founders and innovators of MP3 mixing, which has also lead him to transcend digital music marketing.

Being based out of Portland, Oregon, has not hindered DJ Gigahurtz from being sought after by the masses in cities like Las Vegas, Los Angeles, Miami, Scottsdale, and Seattle. In Las Vegas, he appears at Caesar's Palace and Planet Hollywood among others. In Miami, he was a featured DJ for Diddy's "All White Party" at Club Passions.

In Los Angeles, he has played at the trendiest of venues and has also played for celebrities including professional skateboarder Ryan Sheckler, and NBA superstar Brandon Roy. He has even shared the stage with multi-platinum selling acts Far East Movement, Jay Sean, and Colby O'Donis.

DJ Gigahurtz has worked with corporate clients such as Microsoft, Nike, Mercedes-Benz, Disney and many more. His talent for buzz marketing has also landed him corporate gigs as a marketing consultant for Nike Soccer, Nike Women, Universal Records, and Interscope Records. That same talent of marketing has also helped him with the creation of Vinylbreakers, a digital record pool that distributes MP3s to thousands of DJs around the world.

DJ Gigahurtz's ingenuity and entrepreneurial spirit has led him to multiple noteworthy collaborations with many well-known and successful artists in the form of consultation, promotion, and production. These artists include such names as Trey Songz, DJ Rectangle, DJ Latin Prince, DJ Warrior and DJ Chuckie. His reputation from the past can surely predict to more success to come in the near future.
